EVERY PICTURE TELLS A STORY

[Preschool Outreach Program]

Looking becomes an exciting adventure when exploring the paintings of Sidney Nolan!

Children will engage with selected works from Nolan’s Kelly series and bring them to life through art-based games, singing, storytelling, puppetry and role-play.

Children further investigate these ideas during a practical art-making session where they will experiment with a variety of media to create works of art.

INFORMATION FOR TEACHERS

Every Picture Tells a Story is an early childhood outreach program for Preschool children. The program aims to:

- Introduce children to the work of Sidney Nolan.
- Explore narratives in works of art through art-based games, singing, storytelling, puppetry and role-play.
- Experiment with a variety of media to create individual art works.

Led in your Preschool classroom by one of ACT Museums and Galleries Education Officers, children will encounter reproductions of the work of Sidney Nolan. They will be provided with opportunities to think and learn about Nolan’s paintings and create their own works of art through age-appropriate activities.

Please ensure that children are wearing a name-tag on the day of the program. These labels help us to communicate with the children.

Additional parent help would be most welcome and would help to facilitate the smooth running of the program.

Time frame

10.00 – 10.05am introduction (5 minutes)
10.05 – 10.35am art appreciation (30 minutes)
10.35am recess (15 minutes)
10.50 – 11.50am art-making (1 hour)
11.55am conclusion and goodbye

There are two components to the program; art appreciation and art-making. The program runs for two hours and includes a recess and toilet break of approximately 15 – 20 minutes.

Room set-up requirements

Art appreciation: Children and presenter will sit on the floor. An easel or similar support (such as a chair, or a table near a wall) will be required to display the A1 size reproductions of selected works from the Nolan Collection Gallery.

Artmaking: Following the break, the children move back to the classroom and participate in art making activities. During this time, children will create two artworks; a mixed media collage and a ‘peek-a-boo’ picture. For these activities, children will require their own chair and space at a low table.

Evaluation

Teachers are asked to complete the evaluation form provided at the end of the program. We really appreciate your input so that we can continue to improve our programs. We also value your feedback so that we can maintain those elements of the program that you think work well.

Vocabulary

Children may encounter a number of unfamiliar words during the program. We encourage teachers to talk with students about their art work using age-appropriate language. This discussion will help to develop children’s understanding of art and allow them to communicate new concepts about art. Some new words children may encounter during the program include:

<th>Mask</th>

Look at the Ned Kelly paintings

Works of art from the Nolan Collection Gallery @ CMAG may be viewed online at. Click here to view the Foundation Collection.

Be a Bushranger

Make a helmet from one of your preschool paintings. Cut a peephole then roll the painting into a cylinder to fit the child’s head. Staple and tape the join.

Create Clay Animals

Find some images of magpies, wombats, lizards and other Australian animals. Collect some feathers. Look closely at the textures and details through a magnifying glass. Talk about them and draw them. Teach children how to shape and join pieces of clay together. Make some Australian animals out of air-dry clay (this product does not need firing and is available from art stores). Work can be painted with acrylic paint when dry.

Illustrate a Poem

Make a concertina book from a long strip of paper. Children can fill it with colours, shapes, words and drawings in response to a painting, song or poem based on Australian animals.

Wombat, wombat fat and slow,
Digging with her fingers, digging with her toes,
Digging in the creek bank, digging in the hill,
Digging when it’s windy, digging when it’s still,
Digging when it’s raining, digging when it’s fine,
Dig, dig, digging in the hot sunshine.

Box Sculpture

Collect cardboard boxes and rolls of all shapes and sizes. Paint them black and allow them to dry. Children can make their very own life-size sculpture using pictures of Ned Kelly for reference.

Put on a Puppet Show

How many animals can be found in Sidney Nolan’s paintings? Children can trace the outline of the animals on card. Cut out and decorate with paint and found textures. These may be attached to a paddle pop stick to make a stick puppet. Children can give each character a name and put on a puppet show for the class.
POST-VISIT ACTIVITIES

At the end of the program, teachers will be provided with a set of colour reproductions of selected works from the Nolan Collection Gallery for use in the classroom.

Story Book

Create a large format story book based on Sidney Nolan’s Kelly series using the children’s illustrations. The book could be presented in a display folder or the separate pages could be simply bound. Put the finished story book on the library book shelf for children to borrow, take home and read.

Finger Painting

Make a very spotty Steve Hart finger painting! Children can cover a piece of paper with a background colour using very large house painting brushes or rollers. Encourage them to fill the whole page. When the painting is dry, the next layer of colour can be applied. Children can dip their fingers into some trays of contrasting coloured paint and make a pattern of spots.

Landscape Collage

Look carefully at the way Sidney Nolan paints the Australian landscape. Children could create a landscape collage using a combination of some of the following techniques:

- A big blue sky with wispy white clouds - use a cardboard squeegee to scrape dollops of the paint across paper.
- The hot, dry, flat, parched Australian landscape - collect some natural materials from the playground and sand from the sandpit. Mix these with paint and PVA glue.
- Make animals and figures from shapes cut from coloured paper, card or felt. Add details with markers.
- The scribbly, scrabbly Australian bush - mix tints¹, tones² and shades³ of green on a palette. Use a toothbrush or a thick glue brush to apply the paint using a scumble⁴ technique.

1 A colour mixed with white.
2 A colour mixed with grey.
3 A colour mixed with black.
4 A layer of colour lightly brushed over a previous colour.

Sgraffito Drawing

Ned is hiding somewhere in the Australian bush! Where’s Ned? Have children fill an entire sheet of A4 cartridge paper with oil pastels. Encourage them to make patterns and solid blocks of colour with the oil pastels. Children can then paint a layer of black acrylic paint over the top until there is no colour left showing. When dry, children can use a toothpick, stick or skewer to scratch a drawing into the black paint layer, revealing the layer of colour underneath.

National Portrait Gallery

‘Art is a dialogue between the artist inside himself and the exterior world. On the other hand, art as a career is a public exposure. These two points of view must be synchronized.’ Sidney Nolan, 1965.

The National Portrait Gallery holds a Sidney Nolan self-portrait, considered to be the last self-portrait he painted, created in the year he was made a Companion of the Order of Australia (AC), in 1988. Also on display is a 1974 portrait of the surrealist poet and intellectual Max Harris by Nolan, with whom he co-established (with John Reed) the literary journal Angry Penguins in 1940. Andrew Sayers, Director, National Portrait Gallery writes that “To some extent the final self-portrait of 1988 is an address to those critics who saw him as having achieved nothing of greatness after Kelly”.

The Portrait Store has a selection of books, postcards and other material relating to Sidney Nolan and his work. Listen to Andrew Sayers’ commentary on Sidney Nolan self-portraits online at: www.portrait.gov.au/portrait/oct06/nolan.swf

ACT CURRICULUM FRAMEWORK

Every Picture Tells a Story is framed by the following Essential Learning Achievements (ELAs) in the early childhood band of development of the ACT Curriculum framework:

THE ARTS
ELA 7
THE STUDENT CREATES, PRESENTS AND APPRECIATES ARTISTIC WORKS

Students have opportunities to understand and learn about visual arts and drama.

Students will engage with selected works from Sidney Nolan’s Kelly series and bring them to life through art-based games, singing, storytelling, puppetry and role-play. Children are encouraged to develop the conceptual link between the visual representation of Ned Kelly hiding in the Australian bush, and the drama and suspense of a game of hide and seek.

7.EC.2
Students have opportunities to understand and learn about basic visual concepts in painting and drawing.

Students will look closely at Sidney Nolan’s Kelly paintings to appreciate the artist’s use of line, colour, shape, texture and pattern-making devices.

7.EC.4
Students have opportunities to understand and learn about dramatic elements in storytelling and drama.

Students explore the narrative element in Sidney Nolan’s paintings.

“Nolan’s painted narrative was rather like a series of still frames from a silent screen dramatisation of the events…he called them one off snapshots of each episode…”

7.EC. 7
Students have opportunities to learn to view a range of artistic works including those created by their peers.

Students find out about the difference between an original work of art and a reproduction. They also view the work of their peers in a final show and tell session.

7.EC.8
Students have opportunities to learn to create artistic works that tell a story.

Students create links with their own work and that of Sidney Nolan when they create a ‘peek-a-boo’ picture that tells the story of their own secret hiding place…just like Ned Kelly!
7.EC.9
Students have opportunities to learn to explore details and characteristics of objects, spaces, people and other living things.

Students play art-based games to explore the details of Nolan’s paintings more closely.

7.EC.10
Students have opportunities to learn to experiment with the properties of different art-making techniques and materials.

Students will experiment with collage and drawing techniques. A wide range of art materials will be provided such as liquid crayons and collage media in various colours, shapes, sizes and textures.

SOCIAL SCIENCES
ELA 21
THE STUDENT UNDERSTANDS ABOUT AUSTRALIA AND AUSTRALIANS

21.EC.1
Geography
Students have opportunities to understand and learn about Australia as a large land mass with a variety of environments.

Students view a map of Australia and learn about ‘Kelly Country’, which provides a setting for Sidney Nolan’s Kelly paintings.

21.EC.4
History
Students have opportunities to understand and learn about the stories of some people and events in Australia’s past.

Students are introduced to the story of the Australian bushranger Ned Kelly and the Kelly gang.

21.EC.7
Contemporary Society
Students have opportunities to understand and learn about some official and unofficial symbols used to represent Australia and Australians.

Students examine the Australian flora and fauna as depicted by Sidney Nolan in Policeman in Wombat Hole, 1946 and discover the fictitious boomerang trees. Nolan’s depiction of Ned Kelly himself as big black square has become an unofficial Australian symbol that is at once both recognisable and memorable. It was Nolan’s iconic Ned Kelly that was used to represent Australia and Australians during the Opening Ceremony of the 2000 Sydney Olympic Games.
